One of the most stressful parts of planning a trip can be figuring out where everything is. Sometimes you want to plan your entire route and identify all the stops, restaurants and attractions to best plan what to do and when. As an Internet user, you are probably familiar with Google Maps and their use in planning your trip. Did you know that Google offers another map feature called My Google Maps? It's a newer Google feature, but should you be using it? Read on to find out everything you need to know and if it's right for your next trip! Courtesy: My Google Maps What is My Google Maps? Released in 2013, My Google Maps is a Google Maps feature that allows you to create your own maps and share them with others. My Google Maps is available for Android and iPhone through the Google Maps app. You can sign in to My Google Maps with your Google Account. This will keep everything connected and easily accessible in your Google account Google Maps vs. My Google Maps Google Maps is a feature of Google Maps that allows you to search for destinations and navigate between two points. My Maps allows you to use the same technology to add multiple destinations and navigate between them. Because you can customize your maps, you have access to more information than Google Maps, and you can see more destinations at once. How to use My Google Maps My Google Maps is available online and you can start creating your own maps from there. Start by clicking the red Create New Map button in the upper left corner, then give your map a name. Once you've done that, you can start adding pins to places on the map. As you add more pins, you can customize them by naming them or changing their color. You can even apply layers Accessible on foot, by bike or by public transport. For more detailed instructions, visit the My Card! help page. Courtesy of My Google Maps How to access My Google Maps offline. While creating these maps is very useful when planning a trip, what happens when you're offline? The first trick is to download a map from a website online. Then you can access these maps anytime, anywhere! You need to set a specific area of the map to download, so you can't download the entire map at once if it covers long distances. What to do if you forgot to download maps? Don't worry! Using the rectangle icon in the upper right corner, you can easily open the map in Google Maps to save it for future use. Just make sure you don't close the website or app when you're offline! Unfortunately, there is no other easy way to access My Google Maps offline than these two methods or take a screenshot before starting your trip. How to use Google My Maps for trip planning One of the best uses of Google My Maps is for trip planning. When creating a map, you can add multiple layers, such as B. You can create a layer for food, activities, hotels, and more. This way you can easily edit every aspect of your route and keep everything in one place. Once you start pinning each layer, you can color match them and add notes to include anything you want to remember as you plan. . Some users have reported that Google My Maps doesn't always include exact addresses, so double check all locations before pinning Google My Maps itself. Note that layer features cannot be accessed offline. Then you can easily access the map to move from place to place on your way. If you're planning with friends, you can invite them to edit the tab so they're all on the same page! Directions on My Google Maps. You can not only create directions between two points, but also My Google Maps for real-time navigation. By tapping on the destination you want to go to on the map, you can select Destinations and your guided tour will begin. However, this feature requires an internet connection. Courtesy: Google My Maps Google Alternatives While Google My Maps is a useful tool for planning trips, it's not the only option available. TripIt is a great app to organize your itinerary and all your bookings in one place. For travel, Roadtrippers is the perfect app to create trips and track the right route to get where you want to go. Is it worth using Google My Maps? As a starting point for planning your trip, Google Maps can be a great resource. It's easy to customize pins and color code them so you can easily see what you have planned for your trip. However, there may be location errors and an offline access error or error may occur. While Google Maps is great for getting terrain information, it doesn't provide route planning options other than marking each part of the pin. Layers can be sorted daily, but Google My Maps only allows 10 layers and these layers are not available offline. This means there are more alternatives that might be better for you! Read more: How to Pin Google Maps To create your own map, you need to use Google Maps on your computer. However, when you're done, you can view your map in the Android or iOS apps. To get started, click open the menu in the top left corner of the screen and click on your seats. From there, select Maps from the tab on the right, then click Create Map at the bottom of the list. This will take you to a new page where you can create your card. Adam Birney / Android Authority Start by naming your map. Click on the untitled location in the top left box to open the Edit Map Name and Description menu. Add a name and description for the map, then click Save. Adam Birney / Android Authority Next, choose a theme for your basemap. Different topics can be useful for different purposes. For example, walking routes may benefit from a terrain layout, while trip planning can be made more precise with a base map or a simple atlas theme. Click the down arrow next to the base map and select the theme you want. Adam Birney / Android Authority Additionally, your custom map can consist of multiple layers, each with unique information and goals. You can add more layers by clicking Add Layer in the top gray bar, while layers can be removed or renamed by clicking the three dots next to their name. Now that we've named our map and layers and chosen a theme, it's time to add some details. Marker points, shapes, distance lines, and directions can be added directly to the map or its layers. Pins help you mark specific ones with a clear description. You can search for a location in the search bar or find it on the map by clicking, dragging and zooming with your mouse or trackpad. Click the Add Tag button below the search bar to find a location. Give the pin a name and description, then click Save. Adam Birney/Android Authority. From there, you can adjust the color of the pin icon image or add the photos you took there. You can add as many custom pins as you want to your map. To view details about the various pins and other items, click Select Items, represented by a hand icon next to the add tag icon. Under the destination pin, click the Directions Here icon to create a new directions layer between the pins. starting point. Google will now create a path between your pins. Adding lines or shapes to your map can help highlight specific regions. To do this, click on the "Draw a line" icon below the search bar. Then draw lines with your mouse or trackpad to create a connected shape. If you ever make a mistake, you can click the "Undo" or "Redo" button below the search bar to start over. The area of your shape is calculated automatically. You can adjust color, opacity and add photos to your shapes. You can measure the distance you travel to help you plan ahead. Click Measure distances and areas represented by the ruler icon below the search bar. Now you can draw lines with every click and Google will tell you the distance between the dots. your progress. You can find your own maps on the Maps tab in the Your Places section, where this guide started. Once you've edited your custom map, you can share it with others to keep them all on the same page. Go to My Google Maps, sign in, and select the Owned tab to share your map. This is where your custom map should be listed. On the custom map, click the Share Map button. It gives you the ability to share your map on Facebook or Twitter, via email, or embed it on your website. Adam Birney / Android Authority You can also create a custom link to your map to share directly with others. Click your custom map on the Google My Maps map editor site under the Custom tab. From there, click the Share button in the menu on the left. Adam Birney/Android Authority. Your sharing settings will appear. Here, enable the top slider so that anyone with the link can see your custom map. Read more: How to use Google Maps offline FAQ Can others edit a custom map I share with them? Yes, but you have to give them permission to edit. Otherwise, the map viewer will show the people you share your map with. In the map viewer, you can also: view the contents of the map, show or hide layers, view the map with satellite image sharing, export and print the map. If you have a map and want to see how it looks in the map viewer, click Preview on the left side of the menu. How to create a bus route in Google Maps?
